Tied up at the Philadelphia Navy Yard is the 35,000-ton dreadnaught U.S.S. Washington, second in the series of giant battleships being built by the Navy. Workmen are completing the giant ship for commissioning almost a year and six months ahead of schedule. She is a sister ship of the recently commissioned U.S.S. North Carolina.

ASK GREEK YOUTHS TO VOLUNTEER FOR U. S. ARMY SERVICE

Special Appeal Voiced As Ahepa Order Meets Here

An appeal to Greek youths to enlist for service with U. S. armed forces was voiced by the Buckeye district of the Order of Ahepa at a meeting in the Metzger hotel Sunday, with 24 district secretaries in attendance. The district comprises Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky.

The meeting was called by George Tremouls of Salem, district secretary, and Tom G. Popaspiran, district secretary, and Chris Papadakis, district president of the Youngstown chapter.

Plans were discussed for the district convention in Huntington, W. Va., in June and the national convention in Cincinnati, Aug. 15.

The resolution urging youths of Hellenic ancestry to volunteer in the U. S. Army, adopted at yesterday's meeting here, follows:

"Whereas, the United States Congress in regular session adopted the national defense act, said act calling into service men between the ages of 21 and 35, and, whereas, the Order of Ahepa, and particularly the 11th district, comprising Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky, of said order is in full accord with the provisions of the said act, and

"Whereas, there are hundreds of young men between the ages of 21 and 35, of Hellenic descent, subject to said draft in routine execution of the provisions of said act,

"Now, therefore, Be it resolved that the 11th district Order of Ahepa make special appeal to the Hellenic American youth subject to the draft to volunteer for service; And be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to each chapter for publication and a copy be sent to the Congress of the U. S. A. and a copy to the President of the United States."

Victorious Nazi Pilots Now Prove Heroism

BERLIN, May 5.—German pilots will need at least an acceptable witness or a photograph in the future to obtain credit for destroying planes or ships.

The new system for determining the number of planes downed and the number of ships destroyed was ordered by Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, chief of the air force.

Strictly accurate reports in this respect are needed, it was said, to provide a basis for judgment of the situation, for the award of medals and to guarantee a truthful history of the war.

SOLONS TO TACKLE HOT LEGISLATION

Explosive-Laden Measures Are Scheduled Out Tonight

COLUMBUS, May 5.—Three explosive-laden pieces of legislation come up in the Ohio general assembly tonight as it enters the last days of the 94th biennial session.

The senate is scheduled to vote on the controversial unemployment insurance bill, with labor forces striving to kill it.

Another senate fight centers about a measure to raise the safety standards of coal mines.

The house will act on the senate-approved bill to increase the state highway patrol from 200 to 300 and expand their police powers, which labor opposed.

Meanwhile, the $352,800,000 biennial appropriation bill will be sent to a conference committee instructed to adjust differences between the senate and house over budget increases.

Both the insurance and mine measures, if passed by the senate, would have to go to the house for its approval, too, and might keep the legislature at work until next week.

House leaders, however, remained firm in their intention to quit work Thursday and adjourn sine die May 30. Only the most urgent legislation sent over by the senate will receive attention after Thursday, they said.

Their stand was expected to discourage the senate from action on minor propositions and force it to concentrate on the major ones.

Frank E. Whittemore, Republican leader in the senate, hoped to work out a compromise on the unemployment insurance bill which would substantially increase benefits to the unemployed while reducing contributions of employers to the insurance fund.

CHALLENGES BOTH ARMS AND TIME TO BEND NAZI NATION

Hitler Defies World, Fails To Specifically Mention America

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN, May 5.—Germany and her allies form a mightier combination than any other possible coalition in the world today, Adolf Hitler declared Sunday, and "neither force nor time will make us yield, let alone break us."

What Germany has won, he cried, cannot be wrested from her "by any power in the world."

"If already the German soldier possesses the best weapons in the world, he will receive still better ones this year and next," the fuhrer shouted to a cheering reichstag.

Doesn't Name U. S.

He did not refer to the United States by name in his 70-minute address but some of his references were interpreted as applying to that nation. At one point, after lambasting British Prime Minister Winston Churchill with savage phrases and announcing Germany's losses in soldiers slain in the Balkans at only 1,151 officers and men, Hitler declared:

"When today democratic agitators of a country which the German people never harmed and whose statement that the German people intend to do so is an absurd threat to throttle the National Socialist peoples' state with the force of their capitalistic system, then there is only one answer:

"The German people will never again experience such a year as 1918.

Will Never Yield

"The German people will profess more fanatically than ever the axiom that neither force nor time will make us yield, let alone break us."

"They will maintain the superiority of their armament and, under no circumstance, will allow their lead to be reduced."

"We are under obligation to incorporate the working capacity of the whole nation into this, the mightiest armament process the world has ever seen."

"The reich and its allies represent in military, economic, and, above all, moral aspects, a force which is superior to any possible coalition in the world."

Court Tags Elephant As Damage Action Is Filed

ALLIANCE, May 5.—Originally billed for a two-day appearance here, the "biggest part" of the Mills Brothers circus, first of the season, was held over an extra day Saturday, by action of municipal court.

The circus pulled out Friday night for Barborton, leaving behind its star attraction, a huge bull elephant, and the truck carrying the power plant.

Court Bailiff Bert Lewis attached the two trucks after Mrs. Lavina Holzer filed suit for $1,000 damages when her daughter, Delores Ann, 13, was struck in the face by a bullet fragment during a sharpshooting exhibition.

The amount was reduced to $300 and the court accepted the mechanics truck as security in substitution for the larger trucks, permitting the elephant to join the circus.

F.D.R.'S "FIGHT" STATEMENT INDICATES UNLIMITED HELP

BRITAIN HITS BACK AT AXIS ON 2 FRONTS

Tobruk Garrison Strikes Counter-Blow, London Is Informed

TROOPS IN IRAQ STAVE OFF DEFEAT

Britain Ready To Accept Turks' Mediation In Oil Area War

(By Associated Press)

Two siege-battled British garrisons—one at the Libyan desert fortress of Tobruk, the other in the 4-day-old Iraq war theater—were reported today to have struck heavy counter-blows and temporarily, at least, staved off the threat of being wiped out.

British Middle East headquarters said the Tobruk garrison, under Axis assault for more than three weeks, had attacked encircling German and Italian troops and smashed preparations for renewed attacks.

Heavy casualties were inflicted on the Axis forces, British headquarters said.

Previously, the Swiss radio had noted a Baghdad communique as saying that Iraq troops were closing in on the Habbaniyah garrison and that buildings at the airport were aflame from artillery fire.

The London radio, in a peace bid to Iraq's pro-German Premier Rashid Ali al Gailani, said that if Iraq troops were withdrawn and fighting stopped, "relations of full cordiality" would be restored between the two countries.

Reliable reports in London were that Britain was ready to accept prospective Turkish mediation of the conflict.

The Iraq government was reported to have cut the pipeline flow of oil to the Mediterranean, but the British declared that ample reserves of fuel had been built up to prevent a shortage from crippling operations of the British Mediterranean fleet.

A British communique said that fresh fighting had broken out in the Salum sector, on the Egyptian Libyan frontier, and that heavy losses had been inflicted on Axis troops and vehicles.

REPORT PROGRESS ON SEWER PROJECT

City Workers Have Laid 150 Feet To Date, Engineer States

The city's South Broadway storm water sewer project is making fairly rapid progress, City Engineer F. S. Barckhoff indicated today.

A crew of about 35 WPA workers is busy installing the sewer north of Broadway from the county ditch. The outlet at the county ditch is a 60-inch sewer which extends northward through the Ohio Edison Co. property and under the Pennsylvania railroad tracks at Euclid st.

At the present time the sewer has been installed on S. Broadway to a point 150 feet north of Euclid st. A large crane is being used in the process of cutting in the ditch and installing the reinforced concrete pipe.

The 60-inch sewer pipe goes as far as Perry st. Here it tapers down to 54-inches, then 48-inches at Franklin and on to intercept with the Gahanna sewer on Filbert st.

The city engineer said the sewer would be laid on Broadway to reach Franklin st., where it would go west on Franklin to Filbert and then north on Filbert to connect with the Gahanna sewer.

Completion of the project is expected to provide the city with a quicker medium for carrying off storm water in an area which is usually flooded during heavy downpours.

Ohio Plants Busy—From Spinach To Engines—Defense Covers Wide Scope

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND, May 5.—Ohioans are producing everything from spinach and friction tape to pants and locomotives under "defense contracts."

Millions of dollars are going into the state's major industries for ordnance material, planes, engines, machinery, tools, tires, automotive products, steel and other well known combat items, these involving the largest expenditures. But a survey of army and navy contracts awarded in recent months showed scores of Ohio vendors supplying all most every conceivable product.

The navy, for example, has bought spinach in orders running $14,104 and $8,840, an dit paid $8,265 for an unspecified number of sewing machines. Paint brushes and white lead, bomb skids, fire brick, refrigerators, water-filled practice bombs and $40,764 worth of rubber mattresses are on the lists.

One contract for fibrous glass cloth ran $418,420. Fire hose, chains, canvas, safes, heavy cranes, bronze valves and blize pumps add variety to the orders. In one contract alone the navy bought $183,068 worth of bolts and nuts, and another was for $128,418 worth of steel nuts. More nautical was a $46,937 order for diving apparatus.

Army orders also show the wide range of products needed to feed, clothe, house, equip, maintain, transport and arm the combat forces.

Ohio factories are supplying such items as soap, tents, nails, gummed paper, galvanized pipe, batteries, rivets, lanterns, gloves, drugs and lith

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Trying to spot the forces at work in Iraq is something like guessing the identity of business establishments from their back doors. They are Germany and Great Britain, of course.

Iraq, containing a vast amount of crude oil and a scant population, is one of the intensively exploited regions of the earth. Being unable to govern itself, exploitation is inevitable. So is intrigue. There never has been anything else.

Before World war I, the Turks were the exploiters. After the war, Great Britain gained the privilege. It is the Axis that seeks the privilege now. Germans and Italians have been working for years to plant the seeds of the uprising that would unseat the British and throw Iraq and other parts of the Moslem world into their hands. By the rule that the spoils belong to the victor, Germany is gunning for Iraq with both barrels. It needs oil. It needs an approach to Egypt. Reports that the British in Iraq are being manhandled by native soldiers must be taken for what they're worth. Whoever the soldiers may be, the plans they are carrying out were made in Germany.

Iraq is one of the war's embarrassing moments for Great Britain. It is one of the places where the sun never sets in the British empire. But no one ever would speak of Iraq, even in jest, as part of the democracy that Britain is trying to save. It is an exploited region which the British controlled with a puppet monarch, lately overthrown by a revolt undoubtedly conceived in Berlin.

Iraq is the scene of a struggle for the privileges of empire—a back door struggle that has little, if any, relation to the causes and principles advertised over the main entrance. There is nothing about democracy, or the dignity of man, or Christian ethics in the battle of Iraq—just oil.

SOMEWHERE ON THE WATER

The incident that could lead to another shot "heard" round the world is in the making somewhere on the waters being patrolled by the armed forces of the United States.

Whatever words may be used to describe what is happening in the emergence of America's traditional determination that it shall not yield to naval threats, the plain fact is that this government has taken a step forward in the clash of wills that is the source of armed belligerency.

This nation has put into effect a plan to effectuate its policy of supplying war material to Great Britain. That policy runs directly contrary to Germany's war aim, which is to destroy Great Britain by cutting off its lines of supply.

Sooner or later, a clash is inevitable. If the United States does what it is determined to do, Germany's war aim will be obstructed. It is not to be imagined that Germany will remain passive. Nor is it to be imagined that if Germany does not remain passive the United States will find it possible to continue the myth of non-belligerency.

The last step short of war has been taken. The next step will be taken when a German naval officer, or perhaps the commander of a bomber ranging the Atlantic shipping lanes, sights an American patrol unit and decides what to do about it. If he decides to open fire, the United States will be an active belligerent in World War II.

THE LINDBERGH INCIDENT

Without stretching the point, an American may call what has happened to Charles A. Lindbergh the "Lindbergh incident."

An American citizen—a former national hero who, like most heroes, was not without critics—has exercised the right to comment on his country's affairs. His comment was critical of government policy.

Why he did this is not clear. But it seems important that other citizens were doing the same thing at the same time, and their motives were not similarly questioned.

For some reason or other, Lindbergh was singled out by the government of the United States for special treatment. At considerable trouble and expense, the government arranged to have his speeches answered over extensive radio hookups.

This personal treatment came to a climax when the chief executive and his press secretary each took pains to make direct attacks on Lindbergh's honesty and patriotism, resulting in the aviator's resignation of his commission as a reserve officer in the army air corps.

The public does not know what to make of the "Lindbergh incident." It does not understand why one man was singled out for such unusual treatment. It remembers that Lindbergh was similarly manhandled when he told Great Britain and later the United States that they had underestimated the strength of Germany's air force.

It finds itself in the odd, but deeply significant, position of wanting to defend a man from what looks like a symptom of intemperance and arrogance on the part of the federal government—and is aware, at the same time, that nothing could be more dangerous than such questioning of the government's character in a period when so much depends on confidence.

To date, the public, therefore, has no choice but to believe that its confusion over what has happened is due to lack of information.

IT HAS (HAS NOT) BEEN LOVELY

In a period of remarkable remarkableness, the weather has been remarkably good. It also has been remarkably bad.

Confronted with the grim fact of a coal shortage, householders have been able to let their fires languish for days on end.

Children have been able to enjoy the outdoors without first donning various protective coverings.

It has been possible day after day to say, "Isn't this lovely?" Instead of saying, "Well, I suppose this is what we have to expect."

Though it is only the beginning of May, summer is not something that is coming but a thing already in existence.

But this has come about through a notable absence of rainy days, which have a tendency to dampen not only the ground but also the enthusiasm of human beings, to say nothing of the way they frequently are accompanied by abrupt changes of temperature. It is, therefore, in the spirit of weather observation to point out what unfortunately is forever true about the weather. When it is remarkably good for someone, it is remarkably bad for someone else. There is no point where everyone is completely satisfied. This has been a remarkably bad spring for persons who want to grow things because it has been a remarkably good spring for those who don't.

Popular Fallacies About The Eyes

Discussions From Harvard Medical Research

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I take my title and much of my material from research which has been conducted at the Harvard Medical school, which I find very interesting and valuable. One popular misconception concerning the eyes has to do with illumination. The belief that relatively intense illumination is necessary for visual efficiency and that weak illumination causes disease of the eyes is widely held. A recent treatise says, "Improper lighting conditions and the misuse of light and the eyes are effective in causing eyestrain and permanent injury to the eyes."

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

According to the new creed of visual efficiency, the optimal amount of artificial light is said to be far in excess of that now prevailing in a "half seeing world."

The basic ideas of the higher illumination campaign are unjustified on the grounds of efficiency and also on the grounds of eye health. A very bad psychological state is induced by the implication that the illumination in the average home and office results in some organic harm to the eyes. Some of these statements are illustrated by pictures of a blind man being led by a Seeing Eye dog, the suggestion being that he became blind because of bad illumination in his home.

No Permanent Injury The fact is that no permanent injury ever occurs to the eyes from bad illumination. It is true that prolonged concentration under inadequate seeing conditions, estimated at less than 3 foot-candles, will result in fatigue. But the fatigue is one of attention and the complaint is generally head-ache. The average illumination in most homes and offices is entirely adequate for work with the eyes.

and it can be stated quite definitely that it does not ever cause any permanent injury. The fact that it causes fatigue or headache is not significant because there are protective mechanisms and the reader or worker stops when they appear.

A similar suggestion of fear has been inculcated in a campaign against reading from glossy paper. There is no satisfactory evidence that nearsightedness is the result of much close work, poor illumination or reading print on glossy paper, whereas there is much evidence against it.

Careful medical examination shows that a new 40-watt frosted bulb will provide an illumination of 10-foot-candles at 23 inches, 13 at 19 inches, and 25 at 14 inches. This is entirely adequate for normal purposes although perhaps more intense illumination may be needed for elderly people whose vision has been uncorrected by lenses. It is not necessary when suitable glasses are worn.

The fact is, every man can judge very easily the amount of illumination that gives him comfortable sight. There is no more reason why he should have a light meter in his home than why he should have a thermometer for measuring the temperature of his food or a pair of scales for weighing his breakfast.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS S. H.:—"I am a young woman 32 years of age and am already showing symptoms of varicose veins. I have only two enlarged veins but the rest are becoming enlarged? Is it advisable to take injections in the early stage of varicose veins?"

Answer—"The only contradiction to the injection of varicose veins is when they are due to a complicating condition such as pregnancy, dropsy of the abdomen, or abdominal cyst. Some operators believe that they should be injected only when they are causing disability, but the view is broadening that injection can be done at very early stages, even for slight varicosities and "sunbursts."

J. H.:—"Is it true that certain foods, as grapefruit juice, are bad for a person suffering with arthritis?"

Answer—"No; it has often been recommended for arthritis."

ALWAYS FELT TIRED AND WORNOUT
AS IF HE HAD NOT GONE TO BED

Suffered With Constipation and A Gassy Stomach For Five or Six Years.

MR. MIKE FRECONNA

"I will always be glad to recommend TON JON to all of my friends and associates," said Mr. Mike Freconna of 545 S. Mahoning Ave., Alliance, Ohio. Mr. Freconna is a life long resident of Alliance.

"For the last five or six years I have been suffering with constipation and a gassy stomach. My bowels never moved without using salts or some harsh pill, and even then they didn't do the work as they should. It seemed that everything I ate would turn to gas. I just felt tired and worn out all of the time. At night I couldn't sleep well at all and when I got up in the morning I could hardly tell I'd ever been in bed. My breath was terrible. I always had a bad taste in my mouth. At times I would have terrible dizzy spells.

"I finally decided to try TON JON and I am glad I did because it seemed to go right to the spot and give me the results I had been looking for, for so long. Since taking TON JON it has regulated my bowels and I get two good bowel movements every day. The gas and indigestion has been relieved. Now when I go to work I feel like working."

If you are sick or ailing it certainly would be a mistake not to come in and talk to the TON JON Health Representative in person at Broadway Lease Drug Store, Salem, Ohio.

"Lover Come Back"

by BARRETT WILLOUGHBY

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

The Forest Man came in through the reception room door, closing it behind him. "No luck," he announced, "searched the house, the grounds; nothing of our prowler, except the window yonder. Rose-ann underneath is crushed and shaken. Someone in a hurry landed here in a heap."

"Sondra's eyes," he continued, "were under the window where she had picked up the button that was now burning in her palm."

"Look at the safe, Winthrop," suggested Kemp.

"I saw it—and smelled it—before I left. Nitroglycerine. You've found it?"

"Yes. Whoever cracked it was ever. Came prepared to take full advantage of Liane's torch-dance and the explosion of the Venetian mask."

"Who, besides yourselves, knew the details of that dance?"

"Kemp shrugged. 'Half the town, I guess. I've no idea how many people saw it. But I saw it. And I saw Liane told about it.'"

"But into Sondra's mind flashed the name of one person whom she undoubtedly had told about it. Jean Reynall. He himself had said so, as they danced together. Her fingers tightened on the button, while she swiftly revolved the incidents following Reynall's appearance at the party: His insistence that she meet him at the bank; his failure to keep that appointment; the library door locked against chance intrusion. And, just damming of all the buttons on her uniform. Had he schemed to get her out of the house to—"

"Sondra! The Forest Man broke in on her thoughts. 'You're positive there was nothing of value in the safe?'"

"Absolutely nothing." But the words were hardly out when she recalled that the safe held one thing of great value, to Jean Reynall. The Bates contract. Was it all there?

"She longed to know the answer, but shrank from learning it while under the eyes of her two companions."

A second burst of applause from the next room brought them all to a startled realization that Liane was completing her encore. "Lori!" asked Kemp. "They'll be yelling lights in a minute."

Alexander rose, grinning. "All right, let's go."

"Just one thing," Kemp spoke lastly. "We're all agreed that he's got nothing about this to anyone, right?"

Alexander acquiesced at once. The Forest Man, after a slight hesitation, also nodded; and the three started toward the drawing-room door. Sondra, her mind on the Bates contract, would have lingered, but Kemp caught her arm.

"You must be present when the Forest Man goes up. All your wits will be wanting to congratulate us on the show."

"That's right, Sondra," the Forest Man agreed. "Go along in. Just have me your key and I'll look up here."

The lights came on. The guests, still applauding, surged forward to the platform to congratulate Liane. She stood to receive them, smiling, arrogant, and savagely beautiful in her war bonnet and girle of beads.

The long, shrill blast of a boat's whistle plunged the room into sudden silence. Another, and then another whistle joined the first, until the waterfront rang to a bedlam of prolonged shrieks. There was a concerted rush to the open windows facing the bay. Someone shouted, "That looks like the Tanya tearing in!"

Then through the night, came the foghorn bellow of Chris Sandvik. "The run is on! Five square miles of herring flipping off the entrance to Whale Bay!"

A cheer broke from the men and women crowding each other for a view from the windows. "The run! The run is on!" And in a flash the rooms at Echo House became a milling confusion of hoop skirts and flying coat-tails and hasty good-bys.

The house was nearly empty of the throng when Sondra heard of grandfather roaring, "Alexander! Where in Tophet is that boy? Sondra! Sondra, come here!"

She ran in to him. "Step lively, girl! Get some of the men here to carry me down to the float. The Tanya leaves in twenty minutes. Step lively, damn it!"

"But—darling! You're not going out on a trawler with your led in a cast! You can't—"

"Like blazes I can't! I'm fed bilge-full with this sit-by-the-fire business. I'm going out and see my boys fill their nets. Don't stand there staring like—"

"If you go, Dynamite O'Moore, I'm going, too," declared Sondra. "And if you go, Sondra," cried Liane, darting from the window, "I'm going with you."

The Captain lifted his eyebrows. "They say a woman's a hoodoo aboard ship on the first day of the run. But, by the horn-billed jeez-wax, with a pair as good lookin' as you, I'll back the O'Moore luck against a hatchful of hoodoos? Get goin', me darlin'. Get goin'!"

The Tanya, flagship of the O'Moore herring fleet, waited at the float, her trim seventy-foot length vibrating to the turn-over of a throttled engine.

Sondra, on the afterdeck, was savoring the peculiar exhilaration of the moment. This was Alaska. This was home. No other land offered such stimulus of adventure always in the offing.

Beside her on the main hatch, flanked by his crutches, sat her grandfather; master's cap at a devil-may-care angle on his white head, pea-jacket buttoned over the uniform he had worn at his birthright party. He was jovially complimenting Liane on her outing costume.

"In beads or blue serge. Dark-and-devilish, yet a menace to masculine self-control."

Chris Sandvik leaped aboard, stopped short, and glared at the two girls. "Cap'n you're not taking them with us—on our first trip of the season?"

Liane, smugly flippant, drawled,

"Yes, my vegetable love. He certainly is!"

Chris ignored her. "Cap'n!" he bleated. "You know a woman's bad luck on a fish-boat. But two women! We might as well shove off with a bilge full of gas and all hands playing with firecrackers."

"Sure, now, Skipper." Dynamite's tone was beguilingly diplomatic. "Is your ship, and be it far from me to say who shall come aboard. But with myself hove down and dismantled, Chris dear, I had a great wish for Sondra here, to come along and look after me poor old hull."

Chris shoved his cap to the back of his head and eyed his employer suspiciously. "Huh! All right," he assented. "But she—"

"Miss Bootrin, he calls me! And we want to school together. Oh, Chris-I-I-s!" Liane's voice ran the gamut from hurt astonishment to tenderness, reproach. She caught his hand. The big fellow, truculent yet shrinking, started backing away, while Liane followed, pleading, "Don't be a meanie, just because you've grown up into a big, handsome fleet captain. I just want to watch you do it, Chris. I won't bother you—honest." She had him backed against the turntable now, further retreat cut off. "Please, Chris!" Her uplifted melting gaze was scarcely a foot from his drawn-back chin. "Let me come along."

"I—uh—awh, well! Stay, if you want to." He wrenched himself free, and bolted forward to the pilot house. "But keep clear of me! He barked back over his shoulder as he disappeared inside."

Liane flipped one hand in an airy gesture. "The tougher they are, the harder they fall. And do I love 'em when they're brutal!" Her triumphant laugh was lost in a jangle of engine room bells and the blast of the whistle, as the Tanya, gathering speed, slipped out into the clear darkness of the channel.

Captain O'Moore had been helped forward to the pilchouse, and the two girls were alone on the dark afterdeck.

Liane, flat on her back across the hatch, lazily blew cigarette smoke from her rounded lips. "Imagine, Sondra, hanging a moon like that over a sea like this, and then neglecting to drop a suitable man into the picture."

When Sondra made no reply, she went on, slowly and considerably. "You know, there's something wild and free and careless about this sort of life. I think I could go for it—in smallish doses.... Even to being a fisherman's bride—if the fisherman were a chap like Kemp Starbuck.... or, better still, Jean Reynall. By the way, why wasn't Jean at the party? I thought the Reynalls and the O'Moore had buried the hatchet."

"On the contrary," the Reynalls have now forced us into a fish war. I get boiling mad, every time I think of the underhand way they have acted. First, before showing up here with the Glory, they slyly got an option on our season's catch. But Dynamite got out of that. Then they raked up our year-old contract with Bates. Jean Reynall knows that Bates contract was meant to apply only to last year's fishing. He admits it. But now, through a technicality in the wording of it, he threatens to make Dynamite give him all our catch for the next three weeks. Nice, ethical person."

"Business is business, darling. If Jean has that Bates contract—"

"He hasn't! What's more, he'll never get it, if I can help it. Just now, I've got it tucked inside my sweater. Jean Reynall would like nothing better than to lay hands on that contract; and, as you may know, in a fish fight, there are no rules of fair play."

"No rules of fair play," repeated Liane, with a laugh. "Well, if you ask me, you're all crazy. Both sides will be so busy fighting, neither will get any fish."

"The O'Moore," declared Sondra confidently. "And in the end we'll get the Glory, too. Dynamite never yet lost a fight; and I'm here to help him win this one."

Liane sat up. "So that's where you stand! Somehow, I doubt it, old dear. If Jean hasn't got you grabbing at your slipping family loyalty, then I don't know much about gals."

"I have nothing but contempt for Jean Reynall."

"Fine—if true! As for me, if I had anything Jean wanted, he could have it. And if I didn't have it, I'd try to get it. But that just shows the difference in our temperaments, darling."

Sondra was silent. Liane came to her feet with the grace of a lazy cat, and stood facing westward. Far out lay the low, dim mass of St. Lazarus, the haunted lava island of the Thlingets.

Liane said, "Katieann tells me St. Lazarus is putting on a new 'haunt' this year. A big ship-ghost that slips through the fog like a hunting wolf."

"I've heard of it," Sondra laughed skeptically. "No doubt it's the ghost of the old Russian frigate that was wrecked off there, a century ago."

"Just the same, the Forest Man must take some stock in the story. He was asking Katieann about it, and I understand he's been out there lately, looking around."

"If he has, he probably went looking for timber, not ghosts," replied Sondra.

"Timber! On St. Lazarus! Nonsense. There's none there. Only a lot of lava caves and pillars, so Katieann says. Guess I'll breeze into the pilchouse and devil Chris for a while."

Below, the red and white candy-striped blouse is of celanese rayon taffeta and has a pleated neckline that frames the face. For informal dinner wear it is smart teamed with a long jersey skirt. Right is a striking nautical outfit, worn by Anne Gwynne. The beret is made of white straw fabric with navy grosgrain ribbon band studded with gold stars outlined with red facing. Today's Pattern

BODICE NOVELTY IN SHIRTFROCK Pattern 4746.

The shirtwaister plays a return engagement season after season in the smart woman's wardrobe. Here it is in a new and strictly 1941 version by Anne Adams. Pattern 4746. The bodice is dainty, tastefully planned to do away with bust-line problems. Notice the deep curve of the yokes as they meet the center bodice panels; the concealing gathers in the soft-cut side sections. This treatment, together with the tailored, notched collar and the buttoning to the waist, makes the eye travel up and down rather than across. Even the skirt joins in the slenderizing work with front and back panels. Though just short sleeves are sketched, a long sleeve version is included in this becoming, wearable style.

Pattern 4746 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric.

NON-STOP CONCRETE JOB IS COMPLETED

The Salem Concrete & Supply Co. Saturday night successfully completed a non-stop pouring job on the new Althouse garage building.

Company employees began Wednesday night to pour the cement for the pillars and second floor of the building and continued until 11 p. m. Saturday when the job was finished.

A total of 556 cubic yards of cement was poured. The job had to continue uninterrupted so that no seams or breaks might form in the pillars or floor. Before the building is finished the firm expects to pour between 2,000 and 3,000 cubic yards of cement.

We found a way

"I WAS an average man...rocking along. The plus I needed to push ahead was lacking. One day a friend remarked: 'How do you feel?' I replied, 'All right...I guess, why?'"

This man found a way to go ahead. He reasoned, I am not as alert...keen or aggressive as I might be. That's why I am just rocking along.

He found his answer in the time-tried and tested S.S.S. Tonic. In the absence of a focal or organic disorder—S.S.S. will restore deficient iron in the blood...bring back color...step up your energy and help make "you feel like yourself again." Tune up your system...nail down your job...be in line for advancement. It is worth a good trial.

"The Thunderbolt", Radically New Chrysler, To Be On Display In Salem

NEW CONVERTIBLE AT SMITH GARAGE

Latest, Most Sensational Model Can Be Seen Wednesday

A radically new Chrysler convertible coupe known as the Thunderbolt, which is creating a sensation wherever shown, will be on display Wednesday at the Smith Garage, Third and Vine ave., where it may be seen from 2 p. m. until 9 in the evening. Local motorists will be interested in seeing this latest and most sensational development of advanced aerodynamic design.

In this car, Chrysler corporation engineers see a forecast of the future motor car and a new milestone in the history of aerodynamics and "fashioned-by-function" design. The design is the result of a collaboration between Ralph Roberts and Chrysler engineers. Mr. Roberts' work has influenced motor car design for 20 years all over the world.

Uses Racing Car Ideas

The development of racing cars had a large influence on the design of Chrysler's latest example of advanced aerodynamics. Chrysler engineers have followed the progress of these record-setting machines very closely for the last 15 years and have learned from them the importance of body design in increasing speed, roadability and handling ease.

These practical demonstrations, plus the most exhaustive studies of aerodynamics in the wind tunnel and elsewhere, conducted by Carl Breen, Chrysler corporation executive engineer, and his associates resulted in the creation of the Chrysler Airflow car in 1934. This car was the first to present true functional design and its influence on all motor car design has been tremendous.

The Navy Goes To School

BECAUSE the modern battleship is just about the most complex machine in the world, the Navy's new recruits have to be trained in technical skills. Chief center for such training is the Navy Service school which Henry Ford provided and equipped in the heart of the Ford Rouge plant at Dearborn, Mich. Here approximately 1,000 apprentice seamen are now "learning by doing" in the world's largest factory. Three students of the school, which will graduate 4,500 mechanically-trained men into the Navy each year, are shown learning about gages and precision measurements from one of the instructors assigned to this defense task by the Henry Ford Trade school.

fluence on all motor car design has been tremendous. Chrysler engineers predict that the new Thunderbolt is destined to have an even greater influence on design than did the original Chrysler Airflow.

In the Thunderbolt, it is pointed out by Chrysler engineers, efficiency and beauty go hand in hand. The full-width, sleek-sided body is a radical departure in pleasure car design. The low, broad hood cuts down frontal resistance and the smooth-swept surfaces of front and rear, the flush glass and curved, sloping one-piece windshield and the absence of running boards reduce turbulence when the car is in motion.

No Gingerbread

Chrome is used only to give emphasis to functional lines and there is an entire absence of "ginger-bread" and gingerbread work. There is a notable lack of bulges, ribs, corrugations and other devices that have no part in functional design. Broadness of beam in this car means great interior roominess.

A unique feature of the Thunderbolt is that it has a steel top which completely disappears at the touch of a button. This is a radical advance in design since the owner has the choice of riding in an open or closed car and at the same time be provided with all of the safety of steel top construction.

NEW DEVICES AID RESEARCH ON CARS

Engineers Make Use Of New Stroboscopes To Improve Cadillacs

Stroboscopes one hundred times more powerful than previous similar devices have been put to work in the Cadillac research laboratory, reports Ernie Althouse, local Cadillac Dealer.

The new types permit the examination of wider areas of moving parts and have been used in a survey of shock influences over the complete chassis and body. In this setup, the entire front-end of the car has been "frozen" for inspection as the wheels bounced over plated rollers in a darkened dynamometer cell.

As in earlier stroboscopes, efficiency is based on the fact that the eye retains a brightly-lighted image for sometime after it has disappeared. Flashes of the Stroboscope lights are synchronized with the movement of a part under examination, so that the observer registers vision at only one point in the cycle. This causes the part to appear to stand still.

Many of the new Cadillac stroboscopes can be raised to 240 light-flashes per second. More powerful adjuncts have a top of only 6,000 flashes a minute, but this speed is adequate, engineers say, for most research.

Actual Car Cost Is Two Cents A Mile

The automobile undoubtedly is the cheapest form of family transportation and this low cost, coupled with flexibility and comfort, has been partly responsible for the soaring increase in automobile sales, according to D. U. Bathrick, general sales manager of Pontiac Motor division.

Bathrick points to a recent exhaustive survey by the American Automobile association which shows that actual expenditures for automobile travel amounts to about two cents a mile for a car of average size.

"With more than one person in the car—and the national average is three—this per person cost is cut in third," Bathrick says.

The AAA report does not include tires and repairs because they generally enter into out-of-pocket costs of a trip. Adding these in, however, Bathrick reports, would bring the total to less than three cents per mile.

While low transportation cost is highly important, the automobile also offers a flexibility not found in any other transportation medium," Bathrick says. "The driver's own personal desires set the schedule and route, and both can be changed at any time he wishes."

"The many advantages of automobile ownership, exemplified by this study which shows travel costs lower than any other form of mechanical transportation, undoubtedly was a big factor in bringing the U. S. registration of cars from 28,874,232 in 1933 on a continually rising figure through the last depression to 30,615,087 in 1939."

Ring Bought Babies

Mrs. Agnes Yarrow

Police in Detroit questioned Mrs. Agnes Yarrow, 47, in connection with a baby buying and selling ring with headquarters in Detroit. For two years, an investigation has been going on into the alleged buying and selling of children born to unwed mothers. Authorities said they had information to the effect that childless couples have paid as high as $1,000 for babies originally contracted for before their birth. The ring allegedly paid the hospital expenses for the unwed mothers, then bought the babies from them. Mrs. Yarrow was taken in custody on a tentative charge of conspiracy to violate the state adoption laws. She was released under $2,000 bond.

Flowers Ideal As Mother's Day Gifts

Many young men, particularly, will have more than ordinary reason to think about mother this year on Mother's day, Sunday, May 11. In camps and in the service in varied places, American youth will not find it difficult to think of the folks back home.

In one camp, the officers are using a novel procedure just to make sure that Private Jones not only thinks about mother, but does something about it in the way of writing a letter so that mother will know that Mother's day is something more than merely another date on the calendar.

At this camp, every soldier must show a card or letter to his mother before he can get into mess hall on a certain day.

However, it shouldn't be necessary for folks here to take such drastic steps. At home here we have the Endres and Gross flower shop ready and willing to make Mother's remembrances an easy and enjoyable task.

Endres and Gross have a gorgeous selection of both cut flowers and potted plants now. All you have to do is telephone and you can be sure of just the type of service you desire.

SODAS MAKE HIT WITH YOUNGSTERS

Old Reliable Dairy Treats Children To Five-Cent Sodas

You would have thought every youngster was at the Old Reliable dairy Saturday if you had happened by and the reason was perfectly natural for they were getting big chocolate ice cream sodas for only a Lickel.

This was a special for last Friday and Saturday but many remarked that they intended to go there in the future even if it would cost them the regular price of ten cents because they were so good.

Home made ice cream with plenty of real whole milk whipped by modern ice cream making machinery right before your eyes is the method followed at the Old Reliable dairy.

As homey and sanitary and attractive an ice cream parlor as can be found anywhere in this section of the state is patronized by many families, particularly of an evening. Many come to take out bulk ice cream or sherberts.

Give the Man a Horse

CAMP EDWARDS, Mass. — A new arrival at this camp was reluctant to tell officers what his occupation was in civil life. A chaplain was assigned to the task.

"Well, sir," said the trainee, "if you must know, I spent most of my time accepting bets on the speed of animals."

"A good cavalry possibility," muttered an officer.

Garment Storage At Paris Fills Universal Necessity

The garment storage vault, such as that being constructed by the Paris Cleaners at their remodeled plant on the Benton rd., fills a fundamental and universal need.

It will always exist because it will never be practical to provide, in individual residences, storage facilities which will protect furs and woollen garments.

Limited clothes closet space in small homes and apartments is a pressing problem of thousands of wives.

Protection Against Enemies

Garment vaults are built for protection against four enemies—Moths, mildew, burglars and fire. Furs, the most valuable garments, are attacked most viciously by moths and mildew, then woollens next, and so on down the line as though moths and mildew knew the relative value of garments as the burglars do.

Moths are exterminated by careful and thorough fumigation in fume tight vaults. Furs and woollens are put immediately into a demisting chamber as they are received and then stored in a vault which is periodically fumigated as an insurance and guarantee that all moths are killed.

Mildew is a dangerous enemy, too. But mildew is absolutely eliminated in storage vaults by dehumidifying machinery controlled specifically to meet the conditions in garment storage vaults.

Special humidity and temperature control is a feature of the vault mechanism at the Paris Cleaners. And this is particularly necessary for garment storage.

Oil Must Be Retained

Low humidities dry the natural oils from the fur skins and greatly shorten the life of fur coats by rendering the skins brittle and weak. Each hair of a fur is a very thin capillary tube which draws just sufficient oil from the skin to keep a thin film of oil over the hair.

It is this oil acting as a polish which causes furs to glisten and sparkle after the glazing operations. This oil is lost gradually by contact and evaporation from the skin as long as the skin has oil to supply.

When the oil supply is gone the fur loses its luster, the skin becomes brittle and weak and the life of the coat has neared its end.

Every woman is familiar with the excessive dryness in her 45-degree electric refrigerator, which shrivels and dries her vegetables if they are not protected. Cold storage vaults with ice box temperatures dry up fur coats just as surely as the electric ice box does vegetables.

Consequently, the Paris Cleaners' vault has humidifying equipment to regulate the air content.

WHEEL ALIGNMENT

Your car will hold an even course if it is properly adjusted on our Bee-Line equipment. Bumping curbs, skidding, road ruts all help to put the wheels out of alignment which cause unbalanced steering.

It takes special equipment to make these adjustments, with men that are trained in their use. We are exceptionally well-prepared to care for these troubles.

Axle, Frame and Wheel Alignment is done with Bee-Line equipment without the use of heat or removing parts from the car.

Cleveland East Tech Makes Clean Sweep Of Night Relays

BREAK 2 RECORDS
AS TEAM SNARES
45 - POINT TOTAL

Harrison Dillard Sets Up
New Marks In Hurdles

Cleveland East Tech Saturday night ran, jumped, and hurdled to their third straight victory in the Salem Night Relays before nearly 3,000 people. Never crowded in the scoring, Tech ended up 17 points in the lead with a total of 45.

Akron East and North were tied for second with 28 points each while Lakewood was fourth with 26. Salem, placing only in 4 events was tied for tenth with Akron West at 11 points each. Hansell was high man for the Quakers, gathering 8 points by virtue of second place in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Myers added 2 points with 4th position in the discus and the two-mile relay team of Shoop, Lutz, Quinn, and Horning hung on the last tally.

Sets New Records

Harrison Dillard of East Tech was high scorer for the meet, setting new records in winning both the 120 yard high and 220 yard low hurdles. The Cleveland lad slithered over the highs in 15.2 seconds to beat the old mark of Switzer of East Palestine, 15.1 in 1936, and with a 24.4 chopped 2.4 seconds off the low hurdle mark set by Prokop of Cleveland Cathedral Latin in 1938.

But the man who stole the show was smiling genius Jesse Owens. He didn't do it with his unimpressive marks of 9.9 for the 100 or his 23 foot, 9 inch broad jump; it was with his friendly admission that "Father Time is no beauty doctor" and his tale of participation in the Berlin Olympic games. In addressing the crowd over the public address system, Owens told also of his pleasure in being invited to the night relays and of the high regard in which he had always held them. He was given a big ovation by the crowd.

There were 118 birds from 14 lofts and they made good time against a strong east wind. They were liberated at 7 a. m. and the winner was clocked at 9:35 for a speed of 1057.85 yards a minute, or about 35 miles an hour.

The next race is from Columbus, O., the 136-mile air line station. Birds will be countermarked Saturday afternoon for shipment on the 6:02 train, with a Sunday morning liberation.

FELLER SEEKING TRIBE'S ELEVENTH STRAIGHT TODAY

Young Ace Conceded Good Chance To Defeat
Senators

(By Associated Press)

Bobby Feller is due to go back to work for the Cleveland Indians today, which is enough to make the American League leaders a good bet to run their winning streak to 11 straight against the Washington Senators.

Since that surprising kayo the Chicago White Sox hung on his chin opening day, Master Robert has won four starts.

Pitching Is Good

A pitcher who sets the opposition down with seven hits usually is deserving of more than a mere game line in the box score. It can hardly be a coincidence, therefore, that in running their victories through 10 straight—the latest a 12-4 rout of the Senators yesterday—the Tribe's grade-A hurling staff has yielded only a fraction more than seven saves per contest.

The batting support supplied Messrs. Feler, Milnar, Smith, Harder and Co. also has been noteworthy. The Indians' hitting, with every man but the pitchers chiming in, set the keynote for the American league, where the winners runs in each case ran into double figures.

The Philadelphia Athletics set the day's high in their 17-1 victory over the White Sox. The New York Yankees, still in second place, fell three and a half games off Cleveland's pace when big Buck Newsom set them on their collective ear, 10-1.

In St. Louis Lefty Grove hung up his first victory of the year as the Boston Red Sox, mainly on one big inning, thumped the Browns, 11-4.

Rookie Stars In National
A rookie pitcher, Tom Hughes, was the day's standout performer in the National league. The 21-year-old Philly hurler set down the world champion Cincinnati Reds, 3-0.

The front-running St. Louis Cardinals ran their string to nine in a row. The Cards bunched five of their six hits in the eighth against Manuel Salvo for all their runs and a 3-1 victory.
An error that paved the way for four unearned runs, three of them on Elbie Fletcher's homer, heped the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-4 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The New York Giants, who hadn't won in seven starts, belted Stiffler, s, 3 1 0 0

Breezy Briets Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, May 5.—The Special News Service—Ty Cobb has a sprained side and wants to postpone his benefit golf matches with Babe Ruth from May 16-17 until June 15, or later. . . . Of the 465 newspaper experts who entered the Kentucky derby win-a-bit contest, only 74 picked Whirlaway to win—and not one gave Staretor a tumble and second place. . . . Joe Milan of Presbyterian college had his head shaved so officials in the S. C. track meet Saturday could distinguish him from his twin brother, Jack. . . . Billy Conn goes against Buddy Knox at Pittsburgh May 25 as a tune-up for Joe Louis the next month.

Monday Morning Blues

On Saturday, the third of May, we should have bet on Whirlaway.
Instead, like many another chap, we blew our roll on Porter's Cap. To cry about it does no good. But we wish we in bed had stood.

Neat Timing Dept.

Saturday's editions of the N. Y. World-Telegram named Eddie Arcaro (he rode Whirlaway later in the day) as its "star-of-the-week" . . . Arcaro, who had been slated to ride Our Boots, got sweet revenge on the Woodvale farms for bumping him in favor of Conn McCreary. . . . Tonight's fight winner: Pete Lello over Norment Quarles at Newark. . . . Although he's just another guy named Joe now, Dizzy Dean is accorded the luxury of a private hotel room when the Cubs are traveling. All the others must double up.

Around the Town

If Sonja Honey hasn't already signed a new Hollywood long-term, she's just about to. . . . That charming young Al Vanderbilt is doubling with these evenings' actress Frances Mercer, daughter of the Journal-American's sports writing ace. . . . From Camp Upton, Golfer Frankie Strafaci writes friends: "I'm in and, believe it or not, I love it." . . . Dixie Walker is plenty burned up because someone made off with his colored handy man without even asking waivers. For eight years the guy has been Dixie's cook, chauffeur, valet, messenger and baby-minder. . . . Mrs. Joe Louis is on tour modeling for fashion shows. Her favorite colors are black and blue. So are her old man's.

WHIRLWAY SET FOR PREAKNESS NEXT SATURDAY

Derby Record Breaker To Face "Bold Irishman"

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK, May 5.—When Whirlaway, the vagabond king of the turf, returns to race on a stranglehold on the three-year-old crown will be determined Saturday when the Kentucky derby winner hooks up with Bold Irishman in the $75,000 Preakness at Pimlico.

It's going to be a mighty long time before Whirlway's record-smashing performance in the Derby is forgotten by the 100,000 who saw the little chestnut burn up Churchill Downs home-stretch Saturday with 2:01 2-5 clocking, beating Twenty Grand's mark by 2-5 of a second. But in Bold Irishman from Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Wheatley stable, he'll meet a horse that also can turn on the heat in the final drive.

The Irishman kept out of the Derby by a slight injury, is the only high-ranking two-year-old of 1940 that figures to bar Whirlaway's path to the mythical "triple crown," which also includes the Belmont stakes.

Whether Whirlaway will repeat his Derby performance in the Preakness, not even Trainer Ben Jones is sure. Whirlway was the leading money-winning two-year-old of 1940 and great things were expected of him this season. But he was a "bum" in Florida, hard to handle, but possessing so much speed that he ran out at the turns.

The Derby victory, worth $61,275 and the richest in the stake's history, boosted the earning for two seasons to $145,326 for the son of the English Derby winner, Blenheim.

PORTLAND, Me.—Just 23 years ago the infant Pauline Reilly surged goodbye to her aunt, Maud Reilly, as the latter departed for service as a nurse in the World War. Recently Pauline, trim in her khaki uniform, reported for a year of duty at Camp Edwards, Mass., as an army nurse, herself.

50,000 PERSONS SEE NEW PURSUIT PLANE

LOS ANGELES, May 5.—An airplane which flew by so fast it disappeared before its motors could be heard has made its debut—at a speed, its pilot said, of 458 miles an hour.

Lockheed Aircraft calls its O-38 interceptor, given its first public demonstration before 50,000 spectators at an air show yesterday, the world's fastest fighting plane.

Test Pilot Milo Burcham sent the plane so fast on a level course over the municipal airport that it disappeared into the horizon before the spectators heard the thunder of its engines.

Burcham later sent the craft straight upward at an estimated 300 miles an hour and put it through spectacular rolls and dives.

Seek Palestine Army
COLUMBIA, May 5.—Ohio Jewish leaders have requested President Roosevelt to importune Great Britain "to permit the formation immediately of a Jewish army in Palestine." The message was signed by Chairman Albert Schiff of the Ohio council of the United Palestine Appeal.

Oh, but the Kiss!

Marlene Dietrich, Robert Moore
When a picture of Marlene Dietrich was shown in a psychology class at San Francisco State college, Robert Moore, a student who had never been inside a motion picture house, registered exactly zero on the psychometer, which calibrates emotional response. A student fund was raised so Moore could meet Miss Dietrich personally. He did, as pictured, but registered only 45 at that. When she fixed his tie, the psychometer needle went to 60. But when she kissed him, for four minutes, the needle went to 100—and stayed there.

Packing to Leave Antarctica

Photographs U. S. Antarctic Service

Church Will Hold Coverdish Supper

COLUMBIANA, May 5.—The Towass class of the Presbyterian church will hold a mother-daughter coverdish dinner at the church at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Mrs. R. J. Barrow has arranged a most interesting program, including a playlet and several musical features. Each member is requested to bring a coverdish and table service for herself and daughter.

Mrs. H. D. Evans will give the mothers' welcome and Betty Evans will give the response. Charlotte Ramsey, Betty Evans, Miriam Esterly, Peggy Brungard, Helen Gleaton, Betty Moser, Sally Koch, Janet Barrow and Audrey Michaud will take part in a singing act, "At the Music Counter." Music will be furnished by the girls' orchestra, accompanied by Winifred Esterly. There will be selections by a girls' chorus; a violin solo by Cynthia Woodward; vocal solo, Helen Gleaton; and piano solos by Helen Wilhelm and Eileen Guy.

The annual concert, sponsored by the Columbiana Music Study club, was held Sunday evening at Grace Reformed church in observance of National Music week. Mrs. W. E. Ciendenin directed the ladies' chorus, with Mrs. Paul Price as accompanist. Miss Amelia Culp was organist. Several selections were played by the Ambassador orchestra, directed by William Rankin, Leontonia. Other special numbers included a violin offertory by Don Dusenberry, accompanied by Mrs. Dusenberry, Salem; and vocal solos by Robert Walter, Youngstown, accompanied by Mrs. Roy Simon.

Benjamin Firestone post, American Legion, has selected the dates, Sept. 5-6, for the annual Columbiana street fair. James Fitzpatrick, junior in Columbiana High school, has been selected by the school faculty as the most outstanding boy in his class scholarship, citizenship, etc. and will be sent by the local post Boys' State at Columbus next month.

Miss Bertha Mae Pinkerton, sophomore in Columbiana High school, was judged "Miss Columbiana of 1941" in the beauty contest held at the Globe theater. Theatre Attractions

Charlie Chaplin's latest comedy, "The Great Dictator," his first film in several years, provides him with his greatest screen roles—he plays a dual part—as a timid little barber and a powerful dictator.

The fact that a shy little barber looks like the great leader of Romania, a mythical nation, get them both into serious difficulties. Chaplin's portrayal of the two characters is a masterful travesty on a present-day leader.

He is the quiet little man on the street in the ghetto who wants to be left alone. In his barber shop, the little Jewish barber strives almost pathetically to please. He speaks in frightened monosyllables. He just wants to be left alone.

And then he is Adenoid Hynkel, the raging neurotic dictator, who raves and rants and emits the most violent guttural explosives. The language is an invention of Chaplin's—part English, part jargon. The inherent absurdity of pomp and circumstance reaches its fullest in scenes between Hynkel and his nearest rival, Napaloni, played with bed-lining brow and outthrust jaw by Jack Oakie.

Others in the cast are Paulette Goddard, Billy Gilbert, Reginald Gardiner, Henry Daniell and Maurice Moscovitch.
